GONE! ! !

The Unique Parmelee Coin Cabinet.—Its Public Disposal and Private Dispersion.—A Unique Event in American Numismatic History.

To our readers, to the American public, to the scientific world, and more particularly to numismatists here, there and everywhere, the knowledge of the loss to our country by auction dispersion, indiscriminately, of the only perfect collection of United States coins; the only perfect series of American and Anglo-American Colonial issues, U. S. trial and pattern pieces known in the world is indeed surprising, and a lasting disgrace to a nation whose financial "surplus" would scarce receive a tremor in purchasing this grand, unequalled combination of American gems.

Gone! The hammer fell on the final day of the great "Three Days' Coin Sale" Friday evening, June 27, 1890. Before alluding to this great "numismatic calamity" in detail with prices, let us introduce the remarks of H. P. Smith, Esq., who engineered the sale. He says:

"Mr. Parmelee became a decidedly active Numismatist upon purchasing the 'Seavey Collection,' in 1863, for which he paid about $15,000; he afterwards purchased the famous collections of J. Carson Brevoort, Chas. I. Bushnell, and Sylvester S. Crosby, in addition to whatever rarities that were offered at the numerous sales, public and private, which would add to his cabinet; consequently this collection contains the numismatic gems selected from hundreds of cabinets which have been dispersed within the past thirty years; the catalogue descriptions will appear quite monotonous in the repetition of the superlative degrees of condition and rarity of the coins. It is no exaggeration when we say that it is the most complete and valuable collection of American coins in the world; in fact, it could not be duplicated if it were possible to select the best from the finest cabinets of the world. The true Numismatist, while rejoicing at the opportunity to obtain long sought specimens, must nevertheless regret the necessity for scattering such a superb collection, the possession of which would bring fame to any person or institution. No public collection in this country, from the National Collection down, can compare with this; yet no effort has been made to secure it thus far: while great sums have been paid for collections of various objects of far less historic and intrinsic value to the American citizen.

PARMELEE COIN SALE, JUNE 25–27.

Reported for Mason's Coin Collectors' Magazine.

The preparation of the Parmelee coin sale catalogue was a work of considerable care, and no easy task to complete and render satisfaction to everybody, hence we must say, in all fairness that the catalogner or catalogners deserve credit for whatever success has been accomplished under exasperating conditions. The greatest number of complaints refer to the confusing admixture of pieces of different denominations under the same date, and the rather free remarks interjected here and there, representing the views, and idiosyncracies of the compiler. As far as the grammatical portion of the work is concerned, we would say that our catalogners are not all scholars of a literary turn, and few, if any, sale catalogues are free from ambiguous explanations or verbose remarks.

We have endeavored to give a fair representation of the lots, with prices sold for. Names of buyers were out of the question, hence we leave that portion of the report to a subsequent issue of our journal.

PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF NOTED NUMISMATISTS.

BY E. LOCKE MASON.

No. 1.

Joseph J. Mickley.

When we think of the pleasant interviews we have had with the late Jos. J. Mickley, of Philadelphia, we call up recollections of one of the most gentlemanly, scholarly, jovial, even tempered and lovable individuals that ever graced this, our mother earth.

"Brother Mickley," as he was frequently termed by scientists and friends generally, was a man among men, and his full, round face, in pleasant repose except when illuminated with some witty or pleasant remark, was as welcome as the sun, and every minute of his presence shed a halo of all that was bright and beautiful around those who were fortunate enough to be his companions or his visitors. Children loved Bro. Mickley for his geniality and goodness. Scientists adored him for his great talents, and many worshipped him for his musical genius and the productions of his pen. To see this remarkable man in his work shop, surrounded by delapidated musical instruments, or seated at the piano, or playing a solo on his violin, was a treat indeed. Every musical instrument he repaired was so skilfully adjusted and mended, tuned and toned, that a second visit from its owner was rarely necessary.

Professors, performers and players of note swarmed to the old, spacious dwelling on Market Street, below Tenth Street, Philadelphia, with their instruments, or with orders for Mr. Mickley to call at the residences of the rich, or the cottages of the poor, to have their instruments examined, tuned or repaired. As an expert in this line he was without an equal in the city, and it was always a labor of love. Often were his time and money spent in visits and in outlays for musical materials to help some poor violinist or member of an orchestra to earn his daily bread, without fee or reward.

Thirty-two years ago the writer met Mr. Mickley at the store of the late Edward Cogan, No. 48 North Tenth Street, Philadelphia, about the time of Cogan's "Sealed Envelope Coin Sale" (1858), and subsequently (1859) at the Diligent Hose Co.'s house, Tenth and Filbert Streets, Philadelphia, where the first public coin sale of Cogan's occurred. After these events Bro. Mickley became a constant patron of ours, and the writer a frequent visitor to 939 Market Street (Mickley's Piano Ware-rooms). In 1860 and subsequently Mr. Mickley purchased many coins at our little Second Street coin store, and he became a subscriber to Mason's Coin Collectors' Magazine, and from that date until the date of his sudden decease we numbered him among our closest numismatic friends and patrons.

We shall never forget the appearance of Mr. Mickley in 1867, after his house had been burglarized and many of his choicest numismatic treasures, including his early English Guineas and his almost unique (we believe there was one other known) gold Washington Masonic Medal and early English, German and Swedish Crowns had been stolen. A female relative of Mr. Mickley's had been murdered about this period, for the paltry sum of two dollars, and this coin robbery, following close upon the terrible tragedy, completely smothered the numismatic fever which raged with such fervor in the bosom of our friend, and he immediately resolved (having had many tempting offers) to sell the remainder of his once splendid coin cabinet. The sale by Bangs & Co., of New York, April, 1867, of the Mickley Collection, through the hands of the buyer, W. Elliott Woodward, tells the result. Mr. Mickley made a second collection from the remains of the first, but soon disposed of them and confined himself to the "History of the Swedes Who Settled in Pennsylvania." Mr. Mickley died suddenly from heart disease, while entering a friend's house in Philadelphia, 1879.

SHORTHOUSE'S "STOLEN" COINS FOUND.

In the summer of 1887 the writer visited the residence of Mr. E. Shorthouse, Birmingham, England, and looked over a portion of his U. S. coins with a view of purchasing, but no result was reached. Other dealers and collectors looked the same collection over, and Mr. Shorthouse subsequently discovered that his rare silver Lord Baltimore coins were missing, and immediately jumped to the conclusion that his four rare American Colonials were stolen: in fact he issued a circular and sent it broadcast over the United States, stating that some visitor had stolen his coins.

We naturally felt a little sensitive over this circular, and wrote a letter disclaiming any knowledge of the pieces and stating that if the pieces were ever sold in America they would be readily recognized by their fine condition. Judge of our surprise to receive a letter recently from Mr. Shorthouse, stating that he had found the stolen(?) coins,—just where he had put them, in his safe! It is now in order for this gentleman to make the amende honorable.

CHATS WITH OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

Send us a letter, coin collectors, please,
From the "States," or o'er the briny seas;
Something new — nu-mismatic — say,
And we'll embalm it for a future day.

We once received a letter, offering for sale a few gray hairs of George Washington, and now comes another chance to spend a small fortune for Gen. Lee's Bible, which, we believe, was stolen from the Arlington House after Lee's flight in 1861, and as we were authorized by the U. S. Government to recover Washington and Lee relics, our correspondent had better return the bible to the heirs of the Lee estate, Alexandria, Va., and save trouble, but lose $150. The U. S. Marshal will please observe address of this newly issued "Penny."

STRONG HURST, ILL., Feb. 11, 1890.

Dear Sir.—The article for sale to you is in the shape of Gen. R. E. Lee's Bible with his signature, gold, heavy clasp, large print: taken from his dwelling during the war. It is valued at one hundred and fifty dollars. Please let me know if you can give that price.

A. J. PENNY.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., June 25, 1890.

MESSRS MASON & CO.:

Gentlemen, — Your Vol. XIII., No. 1, duly received. I find it a very interesting and useful addition for coin collectors. Enclosed you will find twenty-five cents in stamps to pay for same. C. H. S.

PORT COLBORNE, ONT., April 27, 1890.

Dear Sir, — Your Coin Book arrived in due form, on time, and am pleased and thankful to you for sending same without charge. In return I send you one dollar ($1.00) for your New Series Magazines for one year. I like it very much. Yours truly,

R. L. TWOKEY,
Port Colborne, Ont., Canada.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18, 1890.

MASON & CO.:

Gentlemen, — I greet with proper (one dollar) appreciation your revived numismatic magazine, and shall look for future numbers with much interest, from the instructive and entertaining character of this. I must correct the impression given that Mr. Parmelee's gold collection was complete to date, as when last spring I had the pleasure of seeing his cabinet and all its beauties, I was interested in completing a set of Three Dollar pieces, and found he had relinquished this series at 1870 or '71, and did not own the rare '73, '75, '76, &c. I may add that I have since completed my series of this beautiful coin, having not only every date but all of the six mint marks issued and one variety (large S) of the '56's. My 1875 was bought at the Davis sale. My Gold Dollar set is also complete as to date, with 30 of out of the 34 recorded mint marks, and 20 Cal. Octagonal Pioneer Dollars (all different), three Bechtler N. C. Dollars, and the '46 Pat. Dollar. I suppose my Indian Head Series has few if any equals. My sets of Silver Dollars, Halves, Quarters, 20c., Dimes, Half Dimes and 3c., include all proof below '56 (except the '58 Dollar), and are principally uncirculated or very fine on the older side, lacking yet only the six rarest Dollars, two Halves, and the 1802 Half Dime. My minor coins cannot be improved, and my set of Cents, while needing improvement here and there, is far advanced and numbers 350 dates and varieties. In mintmarks, from Half Dollars down, I lack only about a dozen. Have given especial attention to Half Dimes, and, having about 1200 of them, have discovered many varieties which dealers have not known of. My set of this series numbers 133 pieces. These details are mentioned that you may know the general character of my interests as a collector, and either give me any news of interest or receive any I can offer, perhaps, for others.

Yours, &c., A. G. H.

SEPTEMBER COIN SALE.

Mason & Co.'s 16th coin sale will take place about the 5th inst.

BIDDEFORD, ME., May 19, 1890.

MASON & CO.:

Please send the New Series Collectors' Magazine for one year. You do not state whether it is monthly, daily or yearly.

Yours, &c., FERGUSON HAINES.

[Ans.—It is neither, only quarterly for the first volume. If all took the interest in coins you have, it would have been a weekly.—ED.]

NEWPORT, R. I., May 5, 1890.

MASON & CO.:

Dear Sirs, — Enclosed please find one dollar for the Coin Magazine. I was agreeably surprised when I received it. If you recollect, a year ago, when on my way to Montreal, I mentioned to you the decease of the New York magazine (Scott & Co.) and told you that if you would start a fresh magazine to put me down as a subscriber, so I think that I was really the first subscriber. I should have remitted before, but a week ago my stables were badly damaged by fire, and two weeks before that I buried one of my grandchildren. J. M. H.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., May 5, 1890.

Gents, — Enclosed find one dollar in payment of year's subscription to the new monthly. Wishing you much success, I remain, Yours truly, GEO. D. WOODSIDE.

[Thanks! If we ever get left out in the cold it is well to be on the wood side, for we know the warmth of a good heart. The "Quaker City." stand-bys are coming in with their subscriptions rapidly. A few still out. —ED.]

NUMISMATIC ODDITIES.

COLLATED BY E. L. M.

If peculiar coinage you should chance to see,
Novel "over-strikes," or other odd mis-cues,
Or those over which collectors disagree,
Send us the facts and below we'll print the news.

PORTLAND, ME., June 20, 1890.

Gents, — I have a Silver Dollar of 1799 with a medallion portrait of Washington struck over the centre: also, a Copper Cent of 1824 with the same struck on obverse and Lafayette's bust on the reverse.

J. A. LITTLEFIELD.

[We have seen similar pieces, and also U. S. silver coins over-struck with the medallion bust of George III., notably the 1799 U. S. Dollar in possession of Mr. Kennedy, of Lowell.—ED.]

Boston, June 30, 1890.

Dear Sir, — Having seen an 1852 U. S. Silver Half Dollar, over-struck with Chinese characters, I should like to know the object of thus over-striking coins. Will some of your correspondents please enlighten us on the subject?

Two Subscribers.

Chas. Kelly, New York City, has a Double Head Washington Cent with a period between "one" and "cent," thus: "one . cent." Will collectors please examine their pieces and report on the above. To us it appears a rare variety.—Ed.

WANDERINGS OF A NUMISMATIST AT HOME AND ABROAD.

BY E. LOCKE MASON.

Continued.

Where'er we go for numismatic news.
Abroad, or thro' our "Uncle Sam's" domain,
Gathering coins from Christians, or from Jews,
We'll here describe them for our reader's gain.
Mayhap we'll interlard the "coin talk" well
With gibes and jokes, and many a story tell.

After we had bagged the 1652 Mass. Silver Shilling, we drove out St. George's Road and found many antique stores and dealers: some of the dealers were more antique looking than their wares, which looked aged enough to have been furniture from Noah's Ark. We spent an hour rummaging among old clocks, old bedsteads, corner cupboards, old china, brass andirons, silver plated, odd shaped candlebras, old snuffers, mirrors, military equipments, broken chairs, bureaus, wine coolers, old jugs, candle-sticks, and any quantity of early English coins and medals. Our purchases were small, comprising a Birmingham Work-house Token, which cost two shillings, and a fine English Two Penny copper coin of 1797, costing three shillings; also, a three buckle silver Crimean War Medal with ribbon.

Next we visited the small antique book stores on Souchehall Street, and picked up numerous American coins but a short distance from the Waverly Hotel. Among the choicest of these "pick ups" were a well worn Carolina Elephant 1694 copper, and an uncirculated 1793 Wreath Cent, at about a sovereign each; also, a few very fine English Tokens and a proof Glasgow Token of 1813, the latter pieces costing about sixpence each. We then turned our cabby down towards Brimelow Bridge, and visited the brokers', pawn and junk shops, and secured some fine U. S. gold, silver and copper coins. An incident of a very amusing nature occurred in front of a beer saloon, that exhibited the sympathy existing between music and lemons, and we trust this recital of an extraordinary incident may be original in its origin, for it deserves the notice of the musical world, and can be profitably imitated in the large cities of America. This anecdote we are about to relate we dub "How to Bounce a Band!"
